Essential services that you need to run your home.

When you move to the UK, one of the most important things you also need to do is sign up for utilities. Utilities are the essential services that you need to run your home, such as electricity, gas, and water. Depending on where you live and what type of property you have, you may also need to pay for other services such as internet, TV licence, and council tax.

In this E-book, we'll guide you through the process of signing up for utilities in the UK and also introduce you to mobile apps that can make your life easier and save you money on your utility bills as a new immigrant in the UK.

How to sign up for utilities in the uk.

The process of signing up for utilities in the UK depends on whether you are renting or buying a property. If you are renting, your landlord may have already arranged the utilities for you, or they may ask you to do it yourself. Either way, you should check your tenancy agreement to see what is included and what is not. You should also take meter readings when you move in and out of the property and inform the utility companies of any changes. However, if you are buying a property, you will have to set up the utilities by yourself. The easiest way to do this is to use a free utilities connection service, such as www.pleaseconnectme.co.uk. This service can help you find the best deals and set up your accounts with the utility providers of your choice. Alternatively, you can contact the utility companies directly and provide them with your personal details, address, and meter readings.

What should you consider when choosing a utility provider in the UK?

There are many utility providers in the UK, offering different prices, tariffs, and customer service. You can compare the options and find the best deal for your needs using comparison websites, such as www.uswitch.com or www.moneysupermarket.com

Some of the factors that you should consider when choosing a utility provider are:

The type of tariff you will pay.

A tariff is the rate that you pay for your energy or water consumption.

There are different types of tariffs, such as fixed, variable, standard, or green. A fixed tariff means that you pay a fixed amount per unit of energy or water for a certain period of time, regardless of any changes in the market price. A variable tariff means that the price per unit can change depending on the market conditions.

A standard tariff is the default tariff that you are put on if you do not choose another one. A green tariff means that some or all of the energy or water that you use comes from renewable sources.

Available payment options.

You can pay for your utilities by direct debit, cash, cheque, credit card, or a prepayment meter. Direct debit is the most common and convenient method, as it automatically deducts the amount from your bank account every month or quarter.

Customer support services

You may want to check the customer service ratings and reviews of different utility providers before choosing one. Customer support is important in case you have any issues or queries with your account, bill, meter, or supply. You can find reviews for utility providers on websites such as Trustpilot, Citizens Advice, etc.

Mobile apps for navigating your utilities in the UK.

There are a number of mobile apps that can be helpful for newcomers in the UK who are signing up for utilities.

Some mobile apps to consider for this purpose are Octopus Energy, Tasker, Nova Launcher, HUGO, Uswitch, and The Switch.

Uswitch

Uswitch is a comparison app that can be used to compare different utility providers and find the best deal.
